

Editor's Note on This Issue

It's been a slow satirical news week if such a thing really exists. Plus, we don't want to overdo the whole "writing" thing. And because of that, we decided to fill this week's Flipside with games and puzzles.

Enjoy them, but try not to get caught doing them in class. It's kind of a diss to the teachers when people ignore them and work on word searches instead. Also disrespectful-- public urination. So please refrain from doing that as well.

This week, since there are more puzzles, there is a bigger prize for the winner. The winner must correctly answer the Trivia and complete the Photo Hunt, Word Search, Maze, Rebus Puzzles, and Cryptogram. You don't have to do the Jumble because I can't even figure out how to do those.

When you're done with everything, please sign your name at the bottom to certify that you are not a cheater and slip it into locker 1192... I think.

X _____
I hereby certify that I didnt cheat on these puzzles

PHOTO HUNT

There are 25 differences between these two photos. Find them all if you have no life, but if you want to win the prize, you only need to circle 15.

(Please circle on the right picture instead of the left or both.)

5 MINUTE MAZE

There are 5 minutes left in the period and you need to get to your locker in X-Hall but teachers (stick figures) are blocking it. How will you get to your locker starting at the blocks? Are you up for the challenge?
PS: Courtyards are closed!

WORD SEARCH

Find the words... at all costs.

By George Minkowski and Jeremy Hoodaman

Yes, it took two people.
