

THE FLIPSIDE

The Big BAM Theory: Bazonkas!

16th Year, Issue 2 No. 123456

August 23, 2019

Headlines

p. 981

Recent testing done by AP Physics students prove science department is swoldest at the school

p. 27,

We won? You're joking right?

p. 69

Hurricane Dorian Will Pound Coasts of Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia Through Friday

Shower Thoughts

You never stop clapping, you just take longer breaks in between.

-My wizard cat

Any complaints regarding content from this issue may be emailed to Daniel Malis at 211malisd@student.dist113.org

This Week's Number:

3

Number of people who stayed after the first half

Roses are red, I don't have much to say. Please bring the emergency binders to BAM today.

It's the inside scoop you've all been waiting for - after a week and a half of curiosity, the mysterious entity that haunts DHS's halls will no longer hide in the shadows. I'm of course talking about BAM. After receiving a mass text on Tuesday, August 27, declaring the necessity of the dreaded emergency binders at the BAM meeting, students were aching with questions. What does BAM stand for? What do they do? How do the binders fit into their goals? What horror befell BAM to require the emergency binders? And most importantly, why is any of that information being given to me, a naive high school student? Buckle up kiddos, because after an exclusive interview with Mr. Joe Taylor himself, I am here to answer all of your burning questions and more.

First off, BAM as an acronym. While many people expected the fun onomatopoeia to be tied to an equally exciting group, the reality is much more underwhelming. BAM is a building administrator meeting, and this name, much to Mr. Taylor's dismay, is both the name of the meeting and the group of administrators involved.

The department chairs, principal, and other administrators were planning on, that very Tuesday, to discuss various emergency procedures like lockdowns, tornados, or a shortage of cafeteria chicken sandwiches. Disappointingly, the "emergency" in emergency binders refers to the content of the binders and not the time of its usage. Fortunately for everyone but Mr. Taylor's public image, the text messages have a much more compelling backstory.

Recently, the school district received a free premium upgrade of the beloved app Remind, allowing the school to send texts to everyone registered into any of DHS's Remind classes without them signing up specifically for DHS's reminders. Mr. Taylor, former Technology Coordinator at DHS, mistakenly chose the first group available to send a reminder - what formerly was BAM was now the newest most relevant group - Deerfield High School.

Luckily, Mr. Taylor did not select the option to send a text to all of Township District 113. Unluckily, some other unwanted guests were privy to such sacred texts - including three years of graduated classes from 2016-2018, and all retired teachers from those years as well. The message interrupting your morning also interrupted the mornings of upperclassmen in college, Mr. Huff, Dr. Brame, and Coach Foerch.

Mr. Taylor apologizes for declining all requests from students to attend the meeting, but regrets nothing else.

-By Ilan Kaplan

Friday Night at Deerfield High

Hey kiddos! As everyone knows, there isn't a ton to do on a Friday night in Deerfield. Besides breaking the 1 person rule and hanging out at the skatepark (RIP) past sundown, there needs to be more ways for us teens to let our freak flags fly. This comprehensive list will hopefully give you a few good options for what to do on a Friday night.

Hang out with friends

Even though you spend all day in the same building with them, it's hard to get that quality time with your best buds. Keeping these close connections with your friends are very important because you never know who you'll need to con into buying you a chicken sandwich from the caf in the future. If you don't have any activities you can do with your friends consider trying: practicing tik tok dances to impress everyone at hoco, complaining about freshmen even though you were 100% the same when you first got to DHS, or pretend going to Target is an activity because there is literally nothing to do around here.

Go to a football game

If you do decide to go to the game remember: always leave after the halftime show. The football players get really nervous when there are too many people in the stands so it's best to clear out before they lose too badly. The best way to support the football team is to only show up for WDT and then leave; it makes everyone feel much better.

Study

A pinnacle of DHS student life is the lack of it. Studying is the only way most of you will get out of high school with a halfway decent GPA. It's important to keep the material fresh in your minds because we live in Deerfield where the grades are high and the kids are tall.

We know Deerfield may seem like a boring little town -and it is- but it's our boring little town (unless you live in Highland Park or Riverwoods or Bannockburn or someplace else) and we wouldn't trade it for anywhere else -especially since Chick-fil-a has arrived.

-By Kelsey Wolfe

Weekly Chirps:

We chirp Lakes for blowing a 17-0 lead

We chirp the carnival for backing up Waukegan road

We chirp all field hockey girls for just being aggressive VSCO girls

Alternate Universe Update:

He's actually 19 and goes to Loyola

Out of Context Quote of the Week

"Honors Spanish II is like the easiest, dude"

-Unsuspecting freshman

SPONSORED ADVERTISEMENT

Ever wanted to get your name on a billboard but didn't want to pay the money for it? Here's your chance! Contact Zach Lefkovitz or Ryan Jensen to put your ad here!

Infographic

Favorite Fire Alarms to Pull :

1

Cafeteria Fire Alarm

Sleek and modern design. Located in highly populated area for extra style points

2

Attendance Office Fire Alarm

Encased in clear dome. Can pull on the way to picking up your lost ID

3

Upper X Hall Fire Alarm

Absolutely garbage fire alarm. Old, rusty, smells like sweaty science teachers

4

I Hall Fire Alarm

Flipside's number one fire alarm. Classical design, quiet and peaceful location

5

Courtyard entrance fire alarm

Easy access to courtyard after pulled in case of actual fire

When it's halftime at the football game

IGHT IMMA HEAD OUT

When I have three hours of homework and it's only 2nd period

(chuckles)
I'm in danger

This Week's Poll

We asked students, what's the best thing at the carnival?

0%	Big Wheel
0%	Losing $25
0%	The healthy treats
0%	Dragon
100%	Not going

Thank you to the students who willingly participated in this week's poll.

Me

Sudoku Fill in the grid so each column, row, and 3x3 box has the numbers 1 through 9

LEVEL : EVILLLLLLLLLLLLLL

	2	8			6
9				8	7
6		7	4
				2		7
	4	9				5	1
		1		5
					1	3		4
			2	3				6
			9			1	2

Note: All names and stories are fictional, unless public figures are being satirized. Remember, these are all jokes. We apologize for any material that may be offending: that is not our intention. If you have any complaints, please email Daniel Malis at 211malisd@student.dist113.org

Rebus Puzzles Can you guess the word or phrase?

-By Ryan Jensen

ECONOMY	1,2,3,...,38, 39,40 LIFE
KNEE UR FULL OF	NINE CUMULUS

The All-Time Meme Maker is Charlie Hart and Sam Shapira. The Editors-In-Chief of this issue were Ryan Jensen and Zach Lefkovitz. The Head Writer is Zac Ambrose. This issue featured writers Kelsey Wolfe and Ilan Kaplan. The Head Proof Reader is Ben Wax..