

5 Epic Last Minute Halloween Costumes

By any chance, did you forget to plan out a sick costume for Halloween this year? If that's the case, The Flipside has got you covered. Here's our list of this years hottest last minute costumes that will have you looking fly at any party that comes your way this Halloweeknd.

Inflatable Dinosaur

A party isn't a party without the classic inflatable dinosaur. You'll have the perfect excuse when the host's mom walks downstairs to find her precious vase in pieces on the floor: you couldn't see! You can find this on Amazon, just make sure to not be an idiot and order it too late.

Mr. Vora

Are you experiencing a leftward shift in supply for costume ideas? This should get you back to equilibrium in no time. So go ahead and pause that Jacob Clifford video and we'll run down this outfit. For this you'll need a cozy knit beanie, and a good old fashioned hoodie to go with it. Then pop on some black slacks and dress shoes. It may not be anything too avant-garde, but that's where the Vora chic comes from. Grab yourself a pickleball paddle & ball and you'll be set for your upcoming halloween festivities.

Gold Fly

Flat Your!

Guy Fieri

If the other costumes haven't been quite to your taste, this one will surely take you straight to flavortown. Draw on a nice goatee, spike up those frosted tips (this is important), throw on a flame-patterned button-down and don't forget to sport some groovy shades to complete the look. If you want the gravitational forces of fried eggs and bacon to warp space and time, give this costume a go, and you'll be too hot to handle!

Eddie Munson from Stranger Things

Need a costume that totally rocks? What a great opportunity to repurpose your dad's Guns n' Roses costume from that Halloween party in 2009! Grab a grungy denim vest and your favorite metal tee, and try to know at least three songs, you don't wanna look like a poser in case you encounter a pretentious metalhead while trick-or-treating. Lastly, throw on a pair of thrifted flared jeans, and be sure to tease that wig sky high and DO NOT forget to headbang. Extra points if you scare children.
