

The Flipside

Year 20, Issue 1

September 13, 2024

dhsflipside.com

*Free everywhere, $2.30 Canada

Hacker Fails to Stop Deerfield Football—But Sure Knows How to Ruin a Wi-Fi Connection!

In a surprising turn of events, Deerfield High School's Wi-Fi went down last week for nearly 48 hours due to a cyberattack traced back to our perennial rival: Highland Park! The hacker's motives? Sabotaging our football team. According to investigators, the cyber attack was a deliberate attempt to derail Deerfield's preparations before the big rivalry game. By disrupting access to online playbooks and communication tools, the hacker hoped to throw off our team's strategy and coordination. Tensions between the two schools have escalated, and the sabotage is being treated as a serious offense.

But the hacker didn't stop there. Highland Park's digital saboteur tried to block students from printing assignments, nearly rendering star left guard Ethan Brooks academically ineligible for the game. The target? Brooks' essay on E.B. White's Charlotte's Web—a bold and evil attempt to cut down our team from within. Fortunately, Deerfield's IT department swooped in to save the day just in time.

After the Wi-Fi was restored, the 'HP Hacker' made a desperate last-ditch effort. Hacking from a Tesla Cybertruck in the parking lot, the culprit infiltrated Coach Zima's headset and blasted 'Hot To Go' by Chappell Roan on repeat. Confused, players mistook Coach Zima's impromptu dance moves for actual play calls. Offensive tackle Alex Wiley was so thrown off he committed a false start penalty. Still, despite these wild shenanigans, Deerfield crushed Highland Park 21-0.

After combing through the evidence, our crack team of investigators has narrowed the suspects to three:

First up, Highland Park Stage Crew mastermind Josh DuBrow. Spotted slinking away after Deerfield's third touchdown, DuBrow has a history of tampering with tech. He was banned from the summer production of Les Misérables after suspicious activity involving DHS audio equipment.

Next, we have Ethan Chodoroff, former DHS band member and Highland Park transfer. Witnesses say Chodoroff, donning an unmistakable blue outfit, was seen sneaking into the Deerfield student section. His old trombone section is certain he's the hacker.

Finally, the prime suspect: the Highland Park and Highwood Moms Facebook Group. Known for their stealthy coordination of school pranks, the group may have orchestrated the whole attack. Cryptic posts like "taking down Deerfield spirit" were circulating in the days before the game. Many believe the moms wanted to spare their sons the humiliation of losing.

Despite these sabotage attempts, Deerfield proved once again that Highland Park is no match for our football team!

F. Side Fitzgerald

Flipside Staff

Zach Stutland
Co-Editor-in-Chief

Ren D'Attilio
Co-Editor-in-Chief

Matthew Agay
Staff Writer

Ethan Howard
Staff Writer

Hayden Meyers
Staff Writer

Greyson Shea
Staff Writer, Comic Artist

And many more people! If you are interested in contributing to The Flipside, please email zacharyst95@gmail.com

Elon Musk Buys Deerfield Barstool Instagram Account for 5 Trillion Dollars pg. 3

Mr. Citron Spotted at Pearl Jam Concert in the Midst of Taking a 'Sick Leave' pg. 444

When life gets you down and you're in need of advice, an answer to a question, or someone to lean on, what do you do? You ask Mr. Motzko! Wondering why your homecoming date canceled or even why your parents don't love you? You ask Mr. Motzko! So go ahead and write with your questions and the esteemed biology teacher will publicly write back. Email the editor today!

The Flipside

Alternate Universe Update: Latest AP Calculus BC test grades are 15% lower after recent Wi-Fi outage prohibits students from accessing PhotoMath through their Neuralink implant. Those accused refused to comment.

This Week's Number:

12

times "billions and billions" was said at the debate

Chirps

We chirp the cafeteria soup bar for coming back

We chirp people who think Raising Cane's is overrated

We chirp Jewett Park for getting rid of the spinnny thing

We chirp the ABC News anchor for counting down from ten

We chirp the freshman food fighters

We chirp the seniors who still can't park

We chirp the people who picked out homecoming dresses in May of last year

Out-of-Context Quote of the Week:

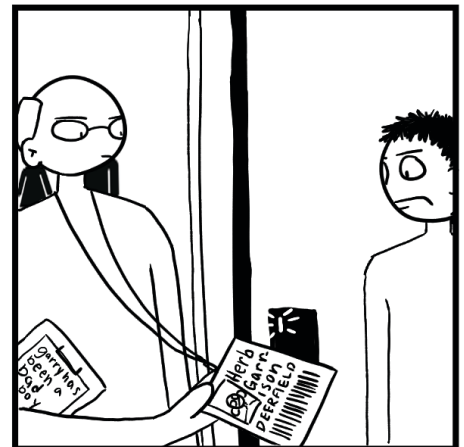

"Stop scissoring; I am going to read you a poem."

- E102

Today's Puzzle: Sudoku

Approved by Deerfield High School Mathematics and Computer Science Department Chair Ms. Navickas for use in all math classes

	4		8		7		3
						4	6
2	1			6			9
	8		1		2
		5		7				1
		4			3	8		9
	9	8	3	1
4		2
3					6	9		7

Greyson Shea